MORE NAZIS TRAPPED AS YANKS DRIVE ON

Meandering Along the Main Stem

By WASH FAYETTE

In Gossard's Jewelry Store window now is an iron cross which will never be awarded a Nazi soldier for bravery in combat. Also in the window are two German helmets, one with a sinister bullet hole in the back; a captured gas mask and a canteen.

The Iron Cross came from Lt. John V. Gibney who sent it to his nephew Jack Alkire. S-Sgt. Earl R. Kinnen sent the helmets, gas mask and canteen to his step-son, Robert Binegar. Both men are in France now.

You can't see it, but on the inside of the helmet with the bullet hole is a dark red stain of blood. The trophies are objects of curiosity here, but I can't help wondering if some Yank helmets are not displayed to an equally curious citizenry in some German village—displayed as trophies of war from an enemy that's hard to defeat.

If any of our Fayette County fliers are forced down in the jungle or over the water in some remote part of this embattled world, and have to depend on surroundings for their sustenance, they are better equipped now than when the war began. In every flyer's "Jungle Kit" are two waterproofed boxes, each containing 20 of the newly developed .45 caliber "shot cartridges." This is the first "shot cartridge" of this caliber and type ever to be developed and its purpose is to provide the airmen with food until rescue comes.

Tests show that it will throw an average of 60 percent of the shot charge into a circle 30 inches in diameter from a distance of 40 feet. It contains approximately 120 No. 7½ pellets. It is slightly longer than the regulation .45 calibre cartridge and for that reason must be fired one shot at a time. The advantage to the soldier, or downed aviator, in the jungle, is that it permits him to shoot a bird or small animal and be ready instantly for bigger game—or the enemy.

If Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker and others who have been forced to try to survive afloat on the water for days at a time had been equipped with these new shells (approximately 410 gauge), it would have enabled them to shoot birds or fish to keep them from starvation, when a single .45 calibre bullet would have been useless.

In many instances the difference between life and death may very readily have depended on the flyer's possession of one of these invaluable little shells.

AMERICAN CAN JOKE IN SPITE OF WOUND

Had Not Had Clothes Off Since D-Day, He Says

LANSING, Aug. 28—(AP)—Frenchmen, having watched where Germans planted anti-personnel mines as they retreated, told Yanks advancing toward Paris of their location, Staff Sgt. Thomas J. Marcus wrote his mother, Mrs. Mary Marcus of Lansing, Belmont County.

Marcus wrote: "I was in the first group here and the few people here showed us where the mines and booby traps were so we could avoid them. They had watched Germans plant them."

"A lot of children were killed by picking up hand grenades left lying around."

"One morning I was awakened by a terrific explosion. I ran to the next field and saw two Yanks who had tripped a mine, lying flat. They were both alive. We cut the clothes off one to get to his wounds. He was conscious and joking. He said he hadn't had his clothes off since D-Day and at last he was going to get some new ones."

ONE MONTH'S ELECTRIC SERVICE FREE EACH YEAR

TERMS OF PEACE BEING DRAWN UP FOR BULGARIA

Other Satellite Countries Warned by Allies To Get Out of War Now

LONDON, Aug. 28—(AP)—Surrender terms for Bulgaria probably will be handed to an envoy of that Nazi satellite in Cairo within a few days and armistice terms for Romania are expected to be signed shortly in Moscow, it was learned today.

Greek and Yugoslav interests are understood to have full protection in the terms to the Bulgars, despite that Balkan kingdom's strange plea to be allowed to retain parts of those Allied nations which Bulgaria grabbed with German approval. The peace terms were prepared by the European Advisory Commission and submitted to Washington and Moscow for approval. Steps were taken to obtain Greek and Yugoslav concurrence.

The Russians asked Germany's remaining Allies—Finland, Hungary and the rump state of Slovakia—to quit the Nazis before it is too late.

Urging other countries to turn against the Nazis as Romania did, the official Communist party Organ Pravda said only thus could they "escape the disastrous consequences of the criminal policies of their governments."

While Russia is not at war with Bulgaria, Pravda's warning seems aimed at her as much as at Hungary and Finland.

BRICKER'S DECISION ON VOTES NOT FINAL

Governor Leaves Door Open In Heated Controversy

COLUMBUS, Aug. 28—(AP)—Gov. John W. Bricker said today he had not closed the door on demands that Ohio law be amended to permit soldiers to mark their absentee ballots with any instrument at hand.

He still is considering the matter, the governor told his press conference, even though the state's election boards had been instructed that only those ballots marked with the law-stipulated black pencil could be counted in the November election.

Democrats and labor groups have demanded that the law be changed at the forthcoming special session of the legislature to permit soldiers to use any means at their disposal to mark ballots. Ohio law prescribes that only a black pencil can be used.

He will confer with legislative leaders, Bricker said, and determine their sentiment. He said he didn't know whether the legislature would wish to take any action, since it rejected a bill to liberalize the ballot marking provision at a special session last spring.

CELINA, O., Aug. 28—(AP)—Pvt. Roland D. Natheny and Gilbert Jolly both of Dayton, drowned yesterday after their rowboat overturned in Grand Lake. Their fishing companion, Ralph Nathen also of Dayton, clung to the boat and was washed ashore.

Natheny is in the hospital here suffering from shock and exposure.

Four Little Baby Boys Born to Soldier's Wife

GAINESVILLE, Ga., Aug. 28—(AP)—Four tiny baby boys slept in incubators in Hall County Memorial Hospital today while their 23-year-old mother, wife of an army private, repeated to attendants, "I don't know what I am going to do with all those babies."

The quadruplets, weighing approximately three pounds each, were born to slim, auburn-haired Mrs. Charles E. Lee between 6 and 7 P. M. yesterday.

Doctors said the infants, normal and apparently healthy, had a

NAZI DEFENSES CRUMBLE UNDER FIERCE ATTACKS

Balkans Breaking Away from Hitler and Turning To Fight Germans

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, Aug. 28—(AP)—Two great Russian army groups paced by colorful Cossacks advanced within less than 50 miles of Bucharest today in a drive swiftly overrunning the wealthy Ploesti oil region.

An unconfirmed report said some columns had plunged 50 miles into Transylvania.

The 16,642 square mile northern section of Transylvania was cut away from Romania and awarded to Hungary by Hitler in the 1940 Vienna dictate. Yet there were no reports of Hungarians fighting alongside the Germans in that area.

The main Russian direction in Romania was toward Bucharest, but numerous columns moved off the Russian right flank into the Carpathians. It was one of these which was reported deep in Transylvania (which capitulated Romania has sworn to retake from Hungary.)

Germans Hit From Air

Strong air forces were bombing and strafing the disorganized Germans day and night. East of captured Galati advance Russian troops poured down the highway toward Bucharest.

FRENCH MOVIE STAR KILLED BY PATRIOTS

Maurice Chevalier Accused of Aiding Nazis

LONDON, Aug. 28—(AP)—Maurice Chevalier, French film actor, was killed by French Maquis last Friday, a Reuters dispatch from Paris said yesterday. There was no confirmation in other dispatches from the capital, or from French headquarters in London.

Chevalier's wide smile, straw hat and Parisian slang were familiar to many American film audiences. He had made appearances many times in German-occupied Paris, according to reports relayed from France after its capitulation.

Battle Over Reconversion Program Looms as Bill up Before Congress

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28—(AP)—The congressional reconversion program faced an uncertain and rough future on Capitol Hill today. New Deal Democrats lambasted the senate-passed unemployment compensation bill and government agencies assailed its companion measure providing for the disposition of surplus property.

The latter proposal, passed in different form by both the senate and house, headed for a joint conference that will seek to compose the differences.

Americans to Fight In China, Say Nazis

British Fleet Swings Into Action in Pacific as Allied Bombers Smash Jap War Industries in 3,000-mile Long Area And Blast Invasion Routes to Tokyo, Philippines

By LEONARD MILLMAN

Allied bombers flying out of the East slashed at Japanese war production centers stretching 3,000 miles from Manchuria to Sumatra while American planes striking from the West maintained their incessant pounding along invasion roads to Japan and the Philippines.

Berlin radio forecast United States troops would soon be thrown into battle in China to stop Nipponese advances threatening American air bases.

Tokyo broadcasts told of air strikes at Anshan, Manchurian steel center, and Shanghai, where Japan produces wooden boats to augment her disappearing merchant fleet.

The raids emphasized an Office of War Information (OWI) announcement that production of long range bombers was to be stepped up.

British Fleet in Action

The British Far Eastern fleet, in its first action under command of Adm. Sir Bruce Austin Fraser, sent carrier planes in strong force against Indragong, Sumatra, site of a cement plant that produces materials for Nipponese fortifications. The surprise raid also heavily hit the port and airfield of nearby Padang, largest city on Sumatra. Only one plane

'MURDER' TURNED OUT TO BE ONLY DEAD DOG

CANTON, Aug. 28—(AP)—"And I think there's been a murder," concluded an excited telephone voice which had related to the Stark County sheriff an episode in which two men had been seen burying a large box in a Canton cemetery and then driving away in a car.

Pursuing the license number supplied by the telephone voice, two deputies collared the men, returning to the cemetery, exhumed the box—and released the men with apologies.

The box contained the body of a dog which died of old age.

ATHENS, Aug. 28—(AP)—The Rev. William L. Hooper, 97, state chaplain of the Grand Army of the Republic, died here yesterday at the home of a relative.

Mr. Hooper, who formerly lived in Columbus, long has been a leading figure in the state GAR, and attended the veterans' convention last spring. He was a member of Co. E in the 174th Ohio volunteer infantry.

BATTLEFIELDS OF FIRST WAR BLOODIED AGAIN

Germans Are Slaughtered in Rhone Valley; Half of Force In South Wiped Out

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

(By the Associated Press)

Plunging across the historic Marne, American armor today swung a great attacking arc against German retreat routes to the Reich, and along the Seine the whole Allied onslaught was wheeling northward from four deepened and strengthened American, British and Canadian bridgeheads.

Heavy German Toll

Meanwhile, came reports that more than half of all German soldiers garrisoning southern France prior to the Allied landings are believed to have been killed, wounded or captured in less than two weeks, and today the tattered remnants were fighting a frantic battle in the Rhone valley to escape a trap.

West of the Seine 20,000 Germans were floundering in a newly established Allied trap and were being slaughtered by ground and air bombardment.

The U. S. Third Army, stabbing 10 miles beyond Lagny to a Marne River loop 23 miles east of Paris, seized Meaux on the north bank of the river, and for the first time in this war Americans were fighting on a great World War I battle-ground—the scene of the Kaiser's dashed 1914 hopes of taking Paris, which were smashed in the first battle of the Marne. Sedan, great battlefield in 1940 and in 1870, was 105 miles away.

Third Army tanks plunged beyond Meaux, and to the south, beyond Troyes, on the American right flank, another column stabbed toward Vitry, less than 100 miles from the German border.

Allies on Move

The town is 24 miles southwest of Chateau-Thierry where American troops in the second battle of the Marne held the Germans during the fateful days of June and July, 1918 and took part in the counter-offensive launched on July 18.

The whole Allied attack today was swinging north on or across the Seine River along almost the whole 200 miles from its source to the sea.

REP. BROWN CLASHES WITH CIO-PAC BOSS

Ohioan Challenges Hillman Non-partisan Claim

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28—(AP)—Sidney Hillman told house investigators today his CIO political action committee is obeying the laws in the campaign, doesn't wish to "capture" any party but proposes to "get out the vote" because it has faith in the judgment of most Americans.

The head of the CIO-PAC, testifying before the Anderson committee set up to investigate 1944 campaign expenses and practices, asserted:

"We are not an appendage of either major political party nor have we any desire to capture either party we seek to influence thinking, the program and the choice of candidates."

"We know that when enough Americans vote, they will vote right; that their collective judgment will prove to be a sound judgment."

Rep. Brown (R-Ohio) noted that Hillman urged the "two-party system" and asked him to reconcile that with his position as head of the American labor party in New York.

"The American labor party endorses candidates of either major party," Hillman said, and in that sense is not a third party.

In an exchange with Brown, Hillman said: "Of course, we will not contribute to the Republican national committee" nor to Governor Thomas E. Dewey whose election as president, he said, would be "a national catastrophe."

"You're not convincing me by that kind of talk that your organization is non-partisan," Brown shot back.

Shoe on Other Foot

It is a Dunkerque in reverse now, with the proud Nazis being kicked out of France. "We must expect the loss of places with world-famous names," a Berlin broadcast was saying at the week's end. They must, indeed, for their scattered man-power is running short, and the Allies press upon them in ever-swelling numbers, with fresh men and materials. There is imminent one of the great debacles of military history. And it is not only historic but spectacular, with the fiery General Patton, in the picturesque phrase of an American correspondent, "riding relentlessly herd on the harried German Seventh Army" to corral and crush it.

The momentous operations will be well worth watching, as the would-be world conquerors are kicked out of other people's territory and swept back, foiled and broken, upon their own boundaries—with no safety even there.

What of Postwar America?

"What is postwar America going to be like?" was the query of a newspaper in a neighboring state recently and there were a lot of replies.

Everyone certainly would like to know the answer to this $128 question, but it should be easier to answer the question "what kind of postwar America do we want?"

There is general agreement that we want an America that will offer real jobs, opportunity, freedom and security, in short, we want a better America. Not just better in comparison with some other countries but an America better than we've ever had before.

We saw this question answered by a writer in one newspaper in the following manner:

"We don't want any breadlines or soup kitchens and we'd much rather have real jobs than those of the 'make work' variety. But where are the jobs coming from? Well, almost everyone will agree that you can't have many jobs unless you have high production. It's almost as simple as that. High production—many jobs. Low production—few jobs. But there's a joker. Because we don't all agree on the best way to get production. There are some people who want to get it by throwing everything into the government kitty and letting the bureaucrats hand out the assignments. Maybe it would work. But it would be mighty expensive. And we'd all be taking orders from Washington on a permanent basis.

"Isn't there a better way to stimulate production? A way that will protect our freedom and raise—not lower—our standards of living? Industrial leaders believe there is a better way. That way is to stimulate production by providing everyone who contributes with strong incentives and fair rewards in accordance with his contribution.

"The working man must receive a fair

Your fortunes will be mixed during the next 12 months, it is prognosticated. Disputes, high feelings and trouble through deception later give way to financial expansion. You are advised to use patience and tact in business and domestic matters. Born today a child will enjoy a modicum of good fortune, but be liable to serious errors of judgment in love and business.

return for his productive labor, and an opportunity to advance, or else he will refuse to work. The consumer must be offered goods at low prices, or he won't buy. The investor must receive a fair return on his risk capital, or he won't invest his money. (On an average it takes $6,000 of his money to create one job opportunity in industry.)

"So industry's program for a better America is based on high production achieved not through bureaucratic dictation, but through strong incentives to all—worker, consumer and investor. Such a plan has worked in the past. We can make it work better in the future. Then America will be a truly better America, with more real jobs, greater opportunity, more freedom and more security."

Two Americans who flew side by side in Germany now lie side by side in Russian soil in the first United States cemetery of this war in the Soviet Union.

All over the world, from Britain to Russia, from Iceland to Africa, from Saipan to Australia, from China to Burma, similar "bits of America" testify to the role we are playing. Tens of thousands of Americans, looking upon the map, will say here lies my son or husband or father. Never again will these far-flung dots on the globe be as remote and unfamiliar as in the past. A great part of the world has become a battleground of freedom, with American youth consecrating it with their lives.

Washington at a Glance

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — The average citizen is all for this better world business, but his brain is reeling under a barrage of post-war predictions which range from a helicopter for every household to a federated world state.

It may help to remember that about nine-tenths of these post-war projects are either in the preliminary blueprint stage or the realm of dreams.

Uncle Sam already has wrapped up for delivery only one big postwar package—veterans' benefits, including the GI law and muster-out pay for servicemen and women. Several states have taken definite action in setting aside millions of dollars for road building and other projects to meet lags in employment.

Some post-war prospects belong in the fairly certain class. Most business experts agree that, despite possible unemployment spots caused by the shift from war to peace production, the demand for consumer goods will be enormous. Satisfying the need for houses, automobiles, washing machines, refrigerators and a thousand and one other things should keep business humming for a few years.

Seasoned business men, however, caution citizens not to expect too many miracle products.

Air Travel Will Zoom

World air transport is getting ready to go places, although the day of cheap trans-Atlantic holidays is hardly in sight. More than 100 applications for international routes are now on file with the Civil Aeronautics Board. The Board has tentatively outlined the international routes of tomorrow, covering 140,000 airline miles and more than 50 countries. Takeoff cities for these routes, as proposed by CAB, would be Seattle, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Brownsville, Tex.; New Orleans, Miami, Charleston, New York, Chicago, Minneapolis and St. Paul.

Air transport service in this country will be extended to many smaller cities not now on routes. Applications on file with the CAB would add more than 350,000 miles of scheduled airways to the present 41,000. Many propose the use of helicopters.

The railroads, bolstered by heavy war revenues, are planning to make train travel more attractive and less expensive. Fleets of streamliners, the last word in cushioned and air-conditioned comfort, will try to hold a sizeable portion of their huge war-time traffic. Some railway officials suggest a reduction in coach fare to one cent a mile to compete with private autos, buses and planes. Faster schedules will be another lure for the traveler.

Homes On The Range

The demand for new homes, it is estimated, will be well over a million a year for ten years. The housing committee of the Twentieth Century Fund has figured that the need for houses will be greatest in the $2,000 to $4,000 class, most probably for rent. A big problem in the low-price field will be to reduce production costs, probably through production costs, probably through encouragement of large-scale use of machinery and factory-made parts.

Homes in higher price ranges will boast "dream kitchens," "palatial bathrooms" and numerous flip-of-the-finger conveniences, but the specific answer to what you will get, for $6,000, $8,000, or $10,000 isn't known now. Air conditioning will be one of the big developments. Reduction in its cost will be a major problem.

Many men will remain in the post-war armed forces. Polls of the public and of members of Congress indicate a large majority favor maintenance of a powerful air force and navy, together with a system of universal military training for the youth of the country.

Need of Vaccinations

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

I HEARD a woman the other day expressing worry about the malignant new tropical diseases that might be brought back to this country by soldiers returning from the South Pacific and African areas. She had read all about Kala-azar, and filariasis and tropical sore and madura foot and she was worried to death about them. She wondered if something couldn't be done to prevent them. I asked her how many of her children had been vaccinated against smallpox, diphtheria, typhoid fever, scarlet fever and whooping cough. She replied that none of them had because her husband didn't believe in that sort of thing—sticking germs or the waste products of germs into children's bodies.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Necessity of Vaccinations

"Your husband is not at liberty to hold such opinions," I told her, "any more than he is at liberty to hold the opinion that murder is a good thing because it reduces the surplus population, or that lynching is justified. The proof of the value of such vaccinations is beyond any smart-alecky opinion: it has been laid down over a period of years and is complete. The diseases I have named are far more dangerous and malignant than the tropical diseases you are afraid of. A century and a half ago they killed their hundreds of thousands every year right here in a climate like this, whereas the tropical diseases can never get a start here because the insects which carry them cannot live here. You would do any fool thing to yourself to render your person safe from filariasis and madura foot because you have just been scared about them. But because the prosecution of vaccination has rendered this country almost free of such killing and blinding diseases as smallpox and diphtheria, you do not hear about the dangers of those diseases any more and you have a false complacent sense of security."

Every year I consider it the highest duty of this column to advise parents to have their children vaccinated against the contagious diseases for which we have proved immunization preventatives. I am told that such preachments are unnecessary because in most states such vaccination is enforceable by law. But I continue because enforcement is often lax, and besides it is better to have the consent of the vaccinated, or at least their parent's.

It is true that smallpox and diphtheria have almost disappeared. Parents take this to mean that the danger is over and allow the preventive vaccinations to slide year after year. And this unvaccinated pool of the population constitutes an ever-ready source of epidemics. If a carrier should infect one child in school, all the unvaccinated children would be exposed.

Vigilance Must Be Maintained

In the meantime in the unvaccinated pool of the population the diseases lie latent, and would bob up again to ravage the innocent at the slightest relaxation of vigilance.

An over-dressed and haughty dowager said to the clerk in the toy department—"But the toys are so old-fashioned." "Yes," replied the clerk, "but the children are new."

They are also new every year for exposure to the contagious diseases. So every year once more we must protect them.

It is almost unnecessary to present arguments for the efficacy of the oldest of all vaccinations against smallpox. A hundred and fifty years ago, before the introduction of vaccination, we have no statistics to tell us the number of deaths, but it was rare to see a face in England unmarked by smallpox scars. Even as late as the decade of 1913-1922 in the United States there were 579 to 610 cases reported.

Today it has almost disappeared. In 1942, and again in 1943, there were no deaths reported. But still there were 780 cases reported in 1943 in the United States, so a reservoir exists.

Vaccination should be done first during the baby's first year.

A. M. M.: What is the treatment of ruptured navel? I got mine when my year old baby was born.

A.: An umbilical hernia, the medical name for ruptured navel, is treated like any other hernia; either by conservative means—supports, or by operation. Which method to choose depends on circumstances and requires the judgment of a doctor.

L. R.: Should eating fresh coffee grounds—3 or 4 tablespoons a day—be worse for a person than drinking several cups of brewed coffee daily?

A.: The caffeine from coffee grounds is not absorbed as completely as in brewed coffee. Still you are taking quite a dose. The only way for you to tell whether it is doing any harm is by the symptoms—wakefulness, nervousness and heart pounding.

T. C. F.: What is the effect of lemon juice on the blood and should it be used as a laxative by one having anemia?

A.: Lemon juice has no special effect on the blood, at least so far as anemia is concerned. It adds Vitamin C to the blood and tends to alkalize it. It is a pretty weak laxative.

SYNOPSIS

A leading and popular resident of Talbot, sleepy little Chesapeake Bay village, is MRS. EUNICE REYNOLDS, elderly and unable to walk, but the possessor of young ideas. She has been dominated by her strong-willed granddaughter.

LAURA, who lives with her. Mrs. Reynolds hires ANNE WILSON, personable young New Yorker, to be her nurse. Long-time fiancé of Laura is RUSSELL SMITH, conservative young attorney.

YESTERDAY: Russell goes home to find that his brother Dan, who has returned after several years' absence, Dan says that among other things he has been in jail.

CHAPTER FOUR

RUSSELL STOOD stiffly as Dan made his mocking reply to the statement that this was his home, too. "I don't think you grasp the importance of what I'm saying."

"Sure I did. This is home. What's mine is yours, and what's yours is mine. The first part doesn't mean much, but the second part is music to me. When do we eat?"

"I've already eaten. I have most of my meals in Weston."

"Ah, yes. The lawyer must eat within the shadow of the courthouse."

"There has been no reason for my eating here alone."

"I can see that. But now I'll be home, it's different. But about tonight..."

Dan broke off in a little laugh and a gesture of rubbing his stomach. Russell hesitated a moment, then went into the kitchen, where he unlocked a large cabinet which was piled with food in tins and glass jars. Dan's madcap blue eyes sparkled at the sight. He smacked his lips, then chuckled.

"I'd certainly have busted off that lock if I'd known what was there. The whole place was locked up, incidentally, so I had to break a pane of glass to get in." He pointed to the window over the sink. "Why all the locks, anyway? Don't you trust whoever cleans for you?"

"Mother liked to keep things locked and eliminate temptation." Dan grinned. "Fame old Russell, aren't you? Still sticking to the letter of the law."

"I'm a lawyer." "I know. And I'm a failure. Dan was to be so clever and do so much and set the world on fire. How sick you must have gotten of it all. Dan must go to special schools. Dan was an artist. Dan was a genius. Everything must give way to Dan. It seems funny now, doesn't it? You're the lawyer because you did everything for yourself, and the smart young brother is a tramp bumming a meal."

Russell put a hand on his shoulder. "I said this was your home. I mean it. You are to stay as long as you wish."

"Which you hope won't be too long."

"I wish you wouldn't put words into my mouth. We're both older now, so let's not argue. You see life in one way and I in another. You believe all work, all ambition are a joke. I think they are all-important. We have rights to our viewpoints."

"But you haven't married Laura Reynolds yet?"

"No, I am not married yet. And I'm going there now. It is her mother's birthday. I think it would be nice if you came with me and paid your respects. Mrs. Reynolds is one of the few people in Talbot who ever asked after you."

The young man ran a hand nervously through his hair. Then he glanced down at his shoes and shook his head. "I can't go visiting like this."

"There are razors upstairs. If anything of mine fits you..."

"What a laugh. No. Run along. I'll just eat something and go for a walk. I won't bother you more than a couple of days."

"Then where are you going?"

"I'll head west again. I guess I just came from there, but that's the way it goes. You know, this canned stuff is the nearest I've been to heaven in ages. Look—tongue, ham, chicken, tuna. Whom were you saving it all for?"

"Maybe you."

Russell said "t, then turned and went out of the kitchen and up the steep stairs. It was as near emotion as he had let himself come. He knew clearly that he must not let himself feel sorry for Dan, who had always been unstable, careless, mockingly independent even as a boy. It was well over two years ago that Dan had disappeared, saying he was looking for what fun there was in the world. Before that, he had gotten into all sorts of trouble, been put out of every school he'd been sent to. Once or twice a brief scrawl on a postcard had come, and it was to one of these vague addresses that Russell had written, saying their mother was dying and wanted Dan to come home. And Dan had received it in jail. It was good she had never known that. It would have shaken the one belief she had clung to, that Dan would meet a good girl somewhere, somehow, and she would make him over.

That had been a dream, too, like all the other plans by which Dan was to come out on top of the heap. Now Dan was back, and there was no sign he had changed at all, except he was more irresponsible than ever. He had come home and calmly broken a pane of glass because the door was locked. So he had always broken anything which stood between him and the momentary object of his desires. Like all shiftless people, he was also ruthless. He would stay here now until he felt the urge to wander off and disappear again. He would accept no bonds of restraint.

Russell shaved and slipped quickly into fresh clothes. He glanced at the little jeweled pin he had bought for Mrs. Reynolds' birthday. It was a simple gift, but he was sure she'd like it. She wanted something youthful and colorful. It was what Laura couldn't understand in her own mother. It was part of Laura's serious outlook on life not to understand anything that wasn't serious. She had mocked Dan.

And now Dan was back, a shabby hobo, proving she was right in her original estimate of him. Russell thrust the pin back into his pocket and went down to the kitchen. Dan was eating cold pork and beans and crackers and jelly. He looked up and grinned with a mouth full.

"I only made a little raid this time."

"Why didn't you heat things up? There are the tongue and chicken soup. Why, you didn't even make coffee for yourself. Or take some more beer."

"I can't be bothered. Don't worry about me."

"But I am worried. Play the radio tonight and stay in. Tomorrow I'll take you to Weston and get you some clothes. Have you a suitcase or anything?"

"What a laugh. It's only in magazines where you bum your way around the country with suitcases and radios. What you don't see, I haven't got."

"You could wear a suit of my pajamas tonight."

"Huh. I don't even know what pajamas are. But I could use cigarettes."

"They're in the smoking stand in the living room."

"Swell. I'll put the shades down and nobody'll know the black sheep has wandered back. And don't worry about clothes. I'll scram."

"I'm not asking you to go. And I wish you'd talk properly. I merely want you to be properly dressed. Then perhaps we can find you a position of some kind."

"Oystering's over, isn't it?"

Russell's face flashed. "You're not an oysterman, you—"

"Right. Don't rub it in. I don't get upset about me. I'm not worth it. I never will be. Now run along and see the beautiful Laura. I'll read and be very correct. I need a good bath and a good sleep. I guess I'll use my old bed in the old room."

"I have turned mother's old room into a study, but..."

"Far be it from me to mess up your study." Dan's eyes were mocking.

Russell went out to his car through the front of the house. He was half furious at Dan and at the same time half sorry for him. There was a new twist about Dan which had never been before. Taking canned beans instead of the ham or chicken was indicative of it. Before, the best of everything had been barely good enough for him. Before, he would have leaped at the chance of getting a new suit. Before, he would have wanted money as well as cigarettes. Whenever he came home from school it had been like that. Something had happened to Dan.

GI's of Four Nations Under One Roof

By JOSEPH C. GOODWIN

KEESLER FIELD, Miss.—A single GI barracks here in the center of a vast expanse of pine-white sand, palm-trees and palms is a test tube, officials at this Army school for B-24 bomber mechanics say, for post-war understanding between nations.

A few weeks ago several hundred Fighting French youths arrived to join the Americans, Chinese and Brazilians brought here for training in how to keep the mighty Liberators flying.

Representatives of the four countries were assigned to a single squadron in a single barracks.

"This international squadron is one of the best outfits on the field," is the official comment.

"Mutual interests have overcome language difficulties and the variance in customs and habits. A spirit of good natured cooperation reigns in the international settlement."

Second Sgt. Li-Hsu Teng, 24, of the Chinese air force, puts it differently. "Boys are boys," he says. "We're all cooking on the front burner."

Brazilian Alberto Botelho Machado looks at it from another angle. "There are nice girls in Mississippi. I think maybe this would be a good place to live after we mop up the Nazis."

The names of the Fighting French, some of whom escaped from occupied France, are never published because of their families at home. Daily they pore over maps of Normandy, tracing progress of Allied armies. They study hard, practice English, like baseball, table tennis, pool and girls.

And the belles of the magnolia belt, who have been teaching them the boogie beat, say the Frenchmen are definitely beamish.

The Chinese are tops as scholars. Camp records show their class average is 96.

"But don't get the idea those boys are just plain bookish," says Sgt. Robert Saenger of New York City. "They have a good memory—especially of Japanese planes over China. They've a vital interest in the calling card capacity of these big four-motored jobs we manhandle."

Three Night Games in Row With Cardinals Facing Reds

(By the Associated Press)

Reeling from a 5-3 setback by the Detroit Tigers yesterday for their fourth loss in a row and their ninth setback in the last 11 games, the league-leading St. Louis Browns, recovered their equilibrium to pound out a 17-2 nightcap victory over the Tigers.

The split enabled the American League pace-setters to retain their 3 1/2 game lead over the second place New York Yankees, who got a draw with the Washington Senators.

The Boston Red Sox, however, moved into a tie for third by a double victory over the Philadelphia Athletics.

The Browns can look forward to the future with optimism. Of their 30 remaining games, 23 will be played at home where they've had a 704 percentage. And they're still to meet the Chicago White Sox, whom they've beaten nine out of 13 times.

The Yankees and Red Sox, on the other hand, will have to finish on foreign soil. Both have played under .500 ball away from home thus far.

The Yankees missed an opportunity to gain a full game on the Browns when they dropped the second game, 5-4, after winning the opener from the Senators 4-2.

The Red Sox double win over the Athletics 8-5 and 7-2, ended a five game losing streak.

For the first time this season, the St. Louis Cardinals failed to win at least one game on a Sunday, when they dropped the opener 14-6 to the Pittsburgh Pirates and tied the second 1-1 in 10 innings, halted by darkness.

Mel Ott hit two homers as the New York Giants won two from the Brooklyn Dodgers, 8-1 and 4-2, to increase their fourth place lead over the Chicago Cubs to one and a half games. The Philadelphia Phillies and Boston Braves split, the Phillies winning the opener 8-5 and the Braves taking the nightcap 4-3.

The not-too-pleasant prospect of playing the league champion St. Louis Cardinals three night games in a row faced the Cincinnati Reds today.

The Reds, who have designs on the second-place spot with its healthy slice of World Series gelt, arrive here at a bad time.

Yesterday's rain in Chicago spoiled a scheduled twin bill with the crippled Cubs. Although the games were reset for September, the Cubs by then will be able to present a much stronger aggregation.

While the Cincinnatians were chafing to get at Jolly Cholly Grimm's ineffectual outfit, the Pittsburgh Pirates, who now hold the second spot as though they intend to stay there, were battering the Cardinals for four hours and 42 minutes to gain a 14-6 victory and a 1-1 tie in a nightcap called by darkness.

This means the Cards will be anything but chivalrous when Harry Gumbert takes the mound for Cincinnati tonight for the Redlegs.

OHIO OPEN WIDE OPEN GOLF RACE

By HAROLD HARRISON

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 28—(P)—Most of Ohio's top-ranking professional and amateur golfers swung into action today in the 1944 state open tournament but the No. 1 man—Byron Nelson of Toledo—was among the missing.

Nelson, rated as one of the greatest linksmen in the history of the game, currently is engaged in the Tam O'Shanter Open at Chicago which had to be carried over until today because of rain.

The delayed finish of the Tam O'Shanter also knocked such stars as Tony Penna of Dayton and Sgt. E. J. (Dutch) Harrison out of a chance to try for the state open title. Nelson won the last open tournament held in 1942.

Thus the state meet took on all the aspects of a wide-open battle in which almost everyone of the anticipated field of from 50 to 75 starts figured he had a chance.

Al Espinosa of Akron, Earl Stinchcomb of Ashtabula, Eugene March of Dayton, Art Smith of Cincinnati and Oscar Willoweit of Dayton were among the pros who were doped to be in the thick of the title scrap.

Maurice McCarthy of Cincinnati, who long has been among the nation's leading amateurs, looked to be the No. 1 hope of the play-for-fun boys.

Approximately $1,000 in cash will be at stake for the pros in the two-day 72-hole affair. The contestants will make two trips around the par 72, 6670-yard Columbus Country Club layout both today and tomorrow.

The open is the first statewide tournament in Ohio to be revived since the golfing fathers called off the whole works in 1942 because of the war.

Horses from Here Being Pointed for Dayton Races Now

Now that the Fairs at Greenville and London have come to an end, many of the horsemen who trained their trotters and pacers at the Fairground here during the winter and spring today are pointing their charges for the speed program at the Montgomery County Fair in Dayton, scheduled to open Labor Day.

Just which horses and how many will go after a piece of the $9,000 to be distributed in purses is not yet certain. Much depends on how they have been developing during the past few weeks and how they have been coming out in their recent races. Horses which do not measure up to the class of competition they have been meeting in the earlier races already are being sent back to the pasture.

An announcement by R. C. Haines, secretary of the Fair Board, said of the race program "because of the many races carded and the size of the purses offered, the best horses in the state will be attracted." The board, he said, had put up $6,760 in purses but the addition of entrance fees was calculated to bring the total to $9,000. Races have been scheduled for every afternoon and evening of the four days, starting September 4.

Secretary Haines said of the Fair as a whole that "it gives every indication of being bigger and better than ever." His announcement pointed out that "the Fair from an exhibition standpoint is devoted largely to the progress of agriculture throughout the county." He stressed, too, that the Fair would have several new features in addition to the customary agricultural displays and livestock shows, the midway entertainment, Grange and 4-H Club exhibits and layouts of the work of school children.

Altogether weekend announcements listed a dozen Japanese ships sunk or probably destroyed. Eight were in the southwest Pacific, two at Sumatra, one at Hongkong and one near Hanoi, Indo-China.

Berlin radio reported an American paratroop division and a mechanized division were stationed in Kweilin, in southeast China, and would soon be thrown into battle to stem Japanese drives toward that air center from the north and south.

The Japanese reopened fighting in north central China to drive Chinese from the western flank of the Chenghsien-Hankow railway, which they are rebuilding. Chungking announced Gen. Chang Teh-Seng was executed for dereliction of duty in his unsuccessful defense of Changsha, on the Hankow-Canton railroad.

British raiders penetrated 100 miles behind enemy lines in southwest Burma. American patrols killed or captured more than 500 Japanese on Dutch New Guinea, vanguard of 15,000 fleeing from the Manokwari garrison.

Shanghai Area Bombed

Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters confirmed today a fresh attack by American Liberators on the vicinity of Shanghai, and said storage areas at the mouth of the Whangpoo were blasted.

Wosung, important Japanese storage area, is at the mouth of the river, 13 miles from Shanghai.

This was the second attack on the Shanghai region by planes of the U. S. 14th Air Force under Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault.

Several weeks ago Liberators blasted the former Italian luxury liner Conte Verde. The ship had been scuttled by its crew the day Italy surrendered, but was repaired and refloated by the Japanese.

Stilwell's headquarters also reported a raid on Amoy Harbor off Fukien Province on the China east coast, and extensive attacks on Japanese positions in Hunan Province, scene of current bitter fighting.

Members of the API softball team today could bask in some of the reflected glory of the Ferguson's Auditors outfit which emerged from the state softball tournament last week in Columbus as the only unbeaten team in Ohio.

The API boys were defeated by the Auditors, it is true but no disgrace. But, they held them to a 6 to 1 score when they came here on August 4 for an exhibition game to raise a little expense money for the City League.

There were plenty of teams not good enough to hold the Auditors to so small a score. Incidentally, the game netted $26.75 for the expense fund.

The Auditors, now a top-heavy favorite to take the state softball championship, took a 1 to 0 game from Bobb's Chevrolts of Columbus Sunday to hand that outfit its first defeat of the season.

Any remaining team will have to whip the Auditors twice to claim the crown.

The API and Wilson outfits were scheduled to meet on Wilson Field Monday (tonight) for the city championship. The title tilt has been twice postponed because of bad weather. Low hanging clouds and an intermittent drizzle during the day did not brighten the prospects for success in the third attempt to wind up the league for the season.

French resistance leaders expressed belief today that German officers left behind for the very purpose were responsible for two attempts on the life of Gen. De Gaulle.

The first shot was fired at the leader of the French committee of national liberation yesterday while he was driving from a square crowded by thousands of Parisians before the Hotel De Ville (city hall).

The tall general never knew at the time that he was fired upon in the square, where a near riot was caused, but he certainly knew of the second attempt, which burst at him as he was entering the Notre Dame Cathedral to hear a prayer of thanks for deliverance of the city.

RED BIRDS SPLIT WITH MUD HENS

(By the Associated Press)

Even idleness aids the pace-setting Milwaukee Brewers, who resume their American Association title drive against last-place Kansas City still boasting a seven-game lead over runner-up Toledo which split a twin bill in the league's only action Sunday.

The Mud Hens muffed a chance to slice a full game from the Brewer's margin when they succumbed to Jack Creel's two-hit pitching and dropped a 1-0 nightcap to Columbus after trimming the Red Birds, 8-3, in the opener.

Bad weather wiped out three other double-headers scheduled to touch off fresh series yesterday, including Milwaukee at Kansas City, Louisville at Indianapolis and a twin city set between Minneapolis and St. Paul.

The Mud Hens had easy sailing in the opener against Columbus as Al Lamacchia hand-cuffed the Red Birds with five hits to post his ninth victory of the season. The Brood, meanwhile, pummeled three Red Bird hurlers for 13 blows, including homers by Ed Ignasiak and Bob Wren.

In the seven-inning finale, however, Creel allowed only a triple by Dick Kimble and a single by Boris Martin to best Toledo's Bill Seisoth in a mound duel settled in the sixth frame when three Red Bird singles produced the game's only run.

London, setting world marks in the latter two.

The 12-event meet was replete with surprises despite the war-caused absence of numerous top-ranking stars. It uncovered a batch of teen-aged stars who'll be giving the top-notchers a post-war swim for their money. There was 13-year-old Jimmy McLane of Akron, Ohio, who finished second to Nakama in both the 1,500 and 800 meter events and made him hustle all the way.

was lost in the fourth Allied raid on Sumatra.

American Pacific forces intensified their steady pounding at the approaches to Japan and the Philippines.

Five Japanese interceptors were shot down in two successive daylight attacks by Marianas-based planes on Iwo Jima, 750 miles south of Tokyo. Docks were left in flames and three Jap planes destroyed in consecutive daylight strikes against Palua, 600 miles east of the Philippines. Halmahera, southern stepping stone to the Philippines, was raided for the 20th day without interruption.

Gen. Eisenhower wanted Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, Lt. Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., and Gen. Charles De Gaulle to participate in the parade, but duty prevented their appearance.

German planes had bombed Paris suburbs the night before, and early yesterday the skies were aglow from the light of fires. The death toll was placed at 110, with 719 injured.

When the raiders came over, people were still in the streets celebrating, despite the battle which broke out Saturday afternoon when roof-top snipers started firing during the victory parade for Gen. De Gaulle.

Several spectators were killed and dozens were wounded as the shooting spread, a short time after De Gaulle had sped along the parade route at a 40-mile-an-hour clip.

De Gaulle's victory address was postponed.

A simple low mass was said at the Cathedral of Notre Dame yesterday, and prayers were offered for all who had died in defense of France. A grand service of thanksgiving was not held because priests feared the worshippers would afford targets for German snipers and

Some selling of September oats was regarded as liquidation of a long line. Selling of the May contract, trade sources reported, was hedging against further purchases of Canadian grain.

PRICE TAG SALE OF SHEEP FIRST IN THIS COUNTY

Sixty-one Head Offered at Sale Sponsored by Shepherds' Club

The Fayette County Shepherds' Club sponsored the first Sheep Price Tag Sale ever promoted in the county, at the Fairground Saturday, where 61 purebred rams and ewes were offered to the public. The Shepherds' Club was interested in offering to the farmers an opportunity to buy some of the good purebred rams and ewes of the county to head the commercial flocks which have been built up to a considerable number in the county the last few years.

While the actual number of buyers was somewhat limited and with total sales probably not as great as expected, yet at the same time all of the rams purchased were to be used for local flocks to improve the quality of lambs coming to the market in next year's lamb crop. The success of the sale could not be measured in the actual number of rams and ewes which changed hands at the sale proper because the indirect sales of the breeders and farmers was probably as great or greater than the sales made on the Fairground.

The Sheep Barn of the local Fair offered fine facilities for conducting such a sale, because of the ample number of pens. Any member of the Fayette County Shepherds' Club was privileged to bring in any number of registered sheep either rams or ewes and place them on sale at a specified price. A fee of $1 was charged for each head offered for sale to cover the cost of advertising.

The following people had sheep consigned to the sale: J. B. Wain, Walter P. Thompson, Bill Thompson, Homer S. Morrow, Robert Cockerill, Chester H. Jones, William White, Willard Bitzer, E. C. Kirkpatrick, Jesse White, Russell C. Beatty, Charles M. Clifton, Elmer Smith, C. E. Pickering, Willard Bloomer, Malcolm Dorn, Hazel E. Beatty, Orville Waddle and sons, Willard Perrill, Harry Pommert, Glen L. Smith and A. B. Clifton.

AUTO DRIVERS MAY GET NEW LICENSES SOON

Sales To Start Sept. 5 at Office of Auto Club; New Requirements

The opening day to obtain drivers' licenses is set for Tuesday, September 5, at the office of the Fayette County Automobile Club, South Main Street.

A school of instruction was called Wednesday of this week in Columbus by Cylon W. Wallace, registrar of motor vehicles, to give instructions on the coming issuance of drivers' licenses. The routine is to be the same as in other years and there is no change in the fees this year, Howard C. Allen, deputy registrar here, said.

There are, however, a few things in regard to obtaining the licenses which should be especially noted, it was said. One requirement Wallace particularly stressed is that all persons applying for chauffeurs' licenses must present a new photograph of standard size (2 1/4 x 2 1/4) which had been taken within the last 60 days. Another requirement is that all those applying for licenses must bring their old licenses with them. In case anyone has lost his 1944 drivers' license, he should go at once to the Automobile Club and make application for a duplicate. Allen said, as it takes more time than normal this year to obtain a duplicate and no new licenses will be issued without either the old one or a duplicate of it.

Applications of persons between the ages of 16 and 18 years of age must be signed by either parent or legal guardian, it was stated. The latter must accompany the applicant when the signature is affixed.

The time of obtaining licenses expires September 30, and Allen said it would greatly facilitate matters for the public and the club if the licenses were obtained early.

Ploesti and blocked mountain passes leading to Hungary by way of Transylvania.)

(German broadcasts frankly admitted their position was "precarious," and said Nazi troops were locked in "unusually ferocious" battle with Romanian troops amid the twisted wreckage of Ploesti oil field installations.)

Nazi Line Anchors Seized

Russians overwhelmed the Germans at Focani and Galati, anchors of the once vaunted Nazi defense line, and rolled on through the oil fields of Ramnoul-Sarat, 75 miles northeast of Bucharest. Ploesti is 57 miles southwest of the advancing Red armies.

Malinovsky moved on Ploesti and Bucharest down the southern side of the Transylvanian Alps while Tolbukhin rolled ahead toward the Romanian front capitulated to the third Baltic army.

MERCURY DROP GENERAL ALL OVER COUNTRY

Rainfall Here Sunday Night .64 of Inch, Heaviest In Two Weeks

A further drop in temperature and .64 of an inch of rain came to this community Sunday, and the rainfall apparently was more or less general throughout this part of Ohio.

It was the heaviest rain in the past two weeks, and the temperature dropped well down in the 50's during Sunday night, after a day with a maximum of 67 degrees. The reading was 63 degrees at 8 A. M. Monday.

The cooler weather is by no means confined to this community, for from Wichita to Boston the nation shivered in abnormally low temperatures over the week-end and the cooler temperatures were continuing Monday.

It never got above 65 Sunday in Kansas City, the third day in a row that the thermometer had set a record for a low maximum. And a mark that had stood for 66 years in Charlotte, N. C., fell chattering when the mercury dipped to 54.8.

Fires were lit in north Georgia (low 59), and in Indianapolis (59), while fall clothes were trotted out on New York's Fifth Avenue (57). And many of the 30,000 fans at the Athletics-Red Sox baseball game in Philadelphia (51) were tickled they had fetched along their topcoats. Boston had a low of 53, Des Moines and Detroit 52.

But the queerest quirk came in Kansas. Not only was it cold, it was wet. And on these normally hot, dry plains cold and wet are two adjectives usually out of place this time of year.

Streams which in many a Kansas August won't run a cup full a month are gushing from bank to bank, with flood stages reported on the Kaw, the Blue, the Missouri.

But in Florida, in southern Texas and on west and up the coast, it was weather pretty much as usual. (Exception: Denver's eight-inch hail storm (Saturday). And things certainly were humming in Yuma, Ariz., where the thermometer hit 113.

from the Danube. The way to Bucharest appeared wide open.

The Russian war bulletin said other Soviet forces climbing westward into the Carpathians above the Galati Gap captured some localities along a railway leading to the Transylvania plateau.

Surrender of two Nazi corps commanders and two major generals, together with 18,000 soldiers, indicated the seriousness of the Germans' plight.

In eight days of the Romanian drive the Russians have killed or captured more than 300,000 Germans and Romanians. This made 1,081,886 Axis troops killed or captured since the summer offensive started June 23.

The Moscow communique said Russian positions northeast and east of Praga, Warsaw's east suburb, had been improved, and 50 additional localities on the Es-

Announcement Will Set Time For Closing Businesses On V-Day

A proclamation suggesting the time of closing business houses when the Nazis surrender in Europe will be issued Tuesday morning, City Manager Walter L. Stambaugh said.

He indicated the time would be 2 P. M.—that is, if the surrender comes before 2 P. M. on any day, the stores and offices will close for the rest of that day; if it comes after 2 P. M., they will close the rest of that day and all of the next.

The proclamation was requested upon after a meeting of business and professional men and women in the common pleas court room at the Court House Friday night. Possibilities of a parade or other celebration were touched upon briefly at the same meeting, but no definite action was taken.

WITH THE ADDED CUPFULS OF EX-TANES

SOHIO Ex-TANES mean 1/3 bigger bomb loads

EX-TANES from Sohio help make it possible for Allied bombers to carry one-third more bombs than they once could. Why?

EX-TANES are "miracle molecules" of concentrated super-power. Sohio makes them from petroleum, by special refining processes, and just a few cupfuls added to a gallon of aviation gasoline "soup it up" into the world's most powerful fighting-grade fuel.

Today, these EX-TANES are supplying plus power that makes possible up to 33% bigger bomb loads — 20% faster climb and 45% greater range for fighter planes.

One especially designed Sohio refinery was making EX-TANES when war came. Now, all Sohio refineries are producing EX-TANES in such huge quantities that Sohio sends them to 10 other refiners coast to coast and to our Allies. As a result, all types of Allied aircraft are now powered with gasoline energized with "the added cupfuls."

Today, our men and women at Sohio are making extra power for victory... tomorrow, they will make better gasolines for you...
